- 21 Thank you to Donors

Our Annual Report showcases service outreach students did during the academic year. We are grateful to our committed staff, students, and donors who made service possible even during COVID. We persisted in connecting students to the community while students continued to serve Children's Programs, Special Topics Courses, and Volunteer Outreach. As we move forward into our 30th year, we thank all of you for being an active part of our on-going journey.

From our Director: Tony Mueller

Going on-line during the pandemic did not stop U of R students from reaching out and engaging through service. In fact, it barely slowed them down. Celebrating its 30th year as a fulltime office, Community Service Learning saw between 450 and 500 students complete their community engagement and reflection requirement around the country. Our steadfast student-run children's programs continued to thrive virtually and went back "in-person" in 2021. (It might be noted that Jasper's and Big Buddies were the first children's tutoring and mentoring programs in the area to go on-line during the pandemic.)

While the majority of service was performed virtually through tutoring and mentoring children, (a difficult task on-line) many students stretched their comfort zone towards on-line GIS mapping technologies in remote villages in Africa and Asia building on virtual platforms to help first responders. Several students dove into our international micro-lending program KIVA, which lends thousands of dollars (money raised by U of R students and staff) for families in third-world countries to purchase things such as a cow, or goat that sustains their business in the villages where they live. (The return rate for our KIVA lending program is nearly 100% - an excellent model for a Business and Accounting major to be part of through service.) Other students completed on-line crisis training for sexual assault services and suicide prevention. Additionally, we also saw great success in May term courses where our virtual Community Coaching Skills class welcomed several coaches including Super Bowl champion coach Bill Belichick who visited with students about the relevance and styles of community coaching. Our special topics course, "Producing a Concert in a Virtual Setting" taught by Dr. Nicole Andrews and her husband Bradley, was a big hit helping over two dozen music educators learn virtual teaching and conducting which became "oh-so" relevant in these COVID years.

No time to celebrate too much as we march on to the next 30 years. The undergraduate students at the University of Redlands make service a well-traveled road instilling a pattern of civic engagement long after they graduate. This issue of our "end of the year" report recalls some highlights of this year and great memories and photos from the past. As you read and look at our report please know that we are thinking of you too. We thank you! We remember you and we celebrate your good service!

Nine Years of Service to the CSL Office

CSL says THANK YOU and GOODLUCK to former Associate Director, Katelyn Argumosa. Katie will be moving forward in pursuit of her dreams of teaching Middle School math.

Katie started her journey with our office during her first year of her undergraduate experience as a Volunteer Center Intern and eventually became a director of Big Buddies. After graduating, Katie moved to Austria as the Program Coordinator and facilitated service projects for students studying abroad and spent a year creating a more active service portfolio for future Salzburg coordinators to utilize. After Austria, Katie joined us back at our Redlands campus back in the CSL office. She served as both Coordinator of Children's Programs and eventually moved on to become Interim Associate Director where she oversaw non-profit work-study outreach, children's programs, and other service-learning teaching assignments.

We will miss her presence in CSL greatly!

Thanks, Katie!

Community Engagement & Reflection (CER) A HIGH IMPACT WAY TO LEARN!

In fulfilling CER, many students independently build their own narrative curriculum to serve a non-profit agency or school. Students decide whom to serve, where to serve, and why to serve at the agency of their choosing.

General components of a Community Service Activity Course (CSAC) include:

- Consultation with a CSL administrator to review the process and refer to non-profit agencies
- Contact non-profit agency to serve, create a schedule, identify learning outcomes, and develop a contract
- Journaling
- Timesheet
- Student evaluation of agency
- Agency evaluation of student
- Final reflective paper
- Verbal group reflection with CSL administrators or faculty

Student Food Support Pantry

SERVING STUDENT FOOD INSECURITIES

Due to the nation-wide increase in food insecurity among college students, the Office of Community Service Learning established an on-campus Student Food Support Pantry (SFSP) in 2019. The SFSP is a resource available to all established full and part-time University of Redlands students facing food insecurities. This space is an open, no-questions-asked space with shelves filled with dried goods, canned goods, non-perishable items, frozen and refrigerated foods. Our new partnership with Feeding America of Riverside/San Bernardino allows a more robust food selection and continues to be stocked through private donations from the Associate Students of University of Redlands, Majestic Realty (Thank you, Fran Inman!), Community Action Partnership, and Bishops Storehouse. We offer a special thank you to First Baptist Church and the Lightbody family for generous donations that made it possible for us to move the pantry into our new home in North Hall and continue to purchase more groceries for students.

A New Special Topics Course: CSAC 367A - Producing a Concert in a Virtual Setting

A new music education course taught future music educators and performers how to reach populations of music students in vulnerable populations. This course focused on building technical skills that gave music educators and performers the confidence to go virtual. Their final product culminated to create an end-of-class virtual concert for the community to enjoy; taught by Dr. Nicole and Bradley Andrews.

The Student Volunteer Center

This year a variety of events took place through our Volunteer Center:

The City of Redlands Sustainable Mobility Plan (SMP)

This initiative is part of our City's effort to increase mobility options for all residents, including communities that currently have limited transportation access and choice. By planning for safe and convenient active transportation networks, the Plan's goal is to connect more people with jobs, goods, services, and public transit networks without the use of a car, improving public health and reducing environmental impacts from vehicle miles traveled (VMT) and greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions. Zeta sisters helped gather data for this project.

American Red Cross Blood Drive

Redlands hosted a blood drive with the American Red Cross and was able to donate approximately 20 pints of blood during this critical time.

Micah House Thanksgiving Gift Cards

Twelve families were given gift cards to Stater Brothers to enable them to have a Thanksgiving meal.

Martin Luther King Week

Redlands honored Martin Luther King's legacy with a full week of virtual events commencing in the luminaries and participated in the

12th Annual Community Day of Service

Students attended the Redlands' Service Club Council's Annual Community Day of Service by going to Kimberly Crest and cleaned the grounds and other gardening duties enabling them to be ready for their reopening.

Virtual Service During COVID 19

Virtually, students volunteered for income tax preparation, Geographic Information System mapping, wrote letters to first responders, sent videos to those in isolation, tutored K-12 students, became language buddies through ENgin, and many other on-line outlets. Students took the chance to make a contribution on a global scale during lock downs. Below is what they had to say about their experiences:

Virtual Mentoring & Tutoring

"I have worked with ENgin (peer-to-peer language tutoring non-profit) for roughly 5 months. The program is designed to pair American and Ukrainian students who have the desire to practice/learn English. Since, I joined this program during COVID it was a great way to meet someone new and fill the void that quarantine left in my social life. As America slowly begins to reopen, this program is something I am still actively participating in and will continue in the future. The light that it brought me during such a dark time is something that I will forever be grateful for."

-Amanda Riebe, Junior

Pictured: Jasper's Corner tutor virtually helps a local K-12 student with Math

Letters to first responders and those in isolation

"I worked with my sisters to create videos for the elderly isolated in retirement homes to give back to the Redlands community during the pandemic. Though we were not able to communicate in person, it was so rewarding to get the opportunity to reach out and spread love to those who had such limited access to their loved ones. Simultaneously, it gave the Beta sorotiy a chance to bond with some of our newest sisters in a meaningful way. After we virtually gathered to come up with ideas and make our videos, the girls all stayed on the Zoom call while we made handmade thank you cards for first responders in our community. Adding that personal touch of making them by hand really made it feel like we were making an impact."

-Mara Sudekum, Junior

Virtual Tax Preparation

"Hosting the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program virtually was definitely a challenging experience, but as Bulldogs we rose up to the challenge and successfully helped many in our community file their returns this tax season!"

-Natalie Perez, Senior

Serving with Children During a Pandemic

Big Buddies, CHAMPS, Jasper's Corner, and Roots and Shoots all stepped up this year to try something completely new. They implemented virtual programs through Zoom. Students mentored, tutored, and taught online to make an impact on local elementary through high school students. Programs met weekly (and outside of virtual meetings) finding ways to send letters and packages to local children to keep them engaged.

Pictured: CHAMPS mentors and mentees pose with their painting from their virtual paint night

Sustainable Gardening

Sustainable University of Redlands Farm (SURF)

The Sustainable University of Redlands Farm (SURF) works to uphold the principles of sustainable and organic agriculture. Food from the farm is donated to promote social equity and produce is sold to the campus food management company, Harvest Table. This year the farm was used as an outdoor classroom space for our annual May Term course in sustainable and urban gardening.

LaFourcade Community Garden

The LaFourcade garden continues to be a popular destination for activities and events on campus. It is also used by many students to peacefully do their homework. LaFourcade is maintained by CSAC students and our great partners in Facilities Management (Thank you Mr. Eugene Jackson!).

California Climate Action Corp Fellows

The University of Redlands partnered with AmeriCorps and participated in California's latest program to battle climate change. California Climate Action Corps is a key part of California's comprehensive climate strategy. The organization deploys trained volunteers to support climate action projects in communities across California. The University of Redlands had three fellows.

"My experience with California Climate Action Corp (CAC) and the UofR have been nothing short of incredible. Specifically here in Redlands, I've been welcomed with open arms and surrounded by a team and community that have others best interest at heart. Serving with the department of Community Service Learning has boosted my ideals and values, while allowing CCAC to meet with community members on a personal level and allow us to educate and inform individuals of their environment. As we continue to build a framework for 'Treestock', we will aim to improve the quality of experience on SURF as to encourage our students, the youth and their families to take equitable action to better themselves and foster conditions of development for the community."

3,800 SAPLINGS DISTRIBUTED AT
OUR ON-CAMPUS TREE GIVEAWAY
AND 3 COMMUNITY EVENTS

Treestock USA

This year our University of Redlands Climate Action Corp Fellows introduced Treestock USA. "Shading neighborhoods one tree at a time", Treestock participated in a tree giveaway partnering with Esri. Thousands of trees have new homes.

In our 30th year, the University of Redlands and the Office of Community Service Learning was the only college selected by the California governor's office to continue as a California Climate Action Corps (CCAC) program. CCAC has moved under the umbrella of Bay Area Community Resources and provided three full-time Fellows provided by the states AmeriCorps program.

The Fellows helped CSL staff develop and run our Treestock tree farm initiative, raising trees to distribute to under-shaded neighborhoods where temperatures reach 115 (plus) degrees. Fellows, utilizing our under-graduate population, also help on SURF moving our campus gardening model forward as an example of how campus communities can directly affect climate solutions, increase urban greening, improve composting measures and grow local vegetables.
