SCHOOL OF EDUCATION | FACT SHEET

For nearly 100 years, the University of Redlands School of Education has upheld a commitment to mentor compassionate, influential educators—dedicated individuals who are driven to contribute to something greater than themselves.

SERVING THEIR COMMUNITIES AS LEADERS

The graduate and professional School of Education at the University of Redlands endeavors to transform students into innovative scholar-practitioners, guided by the ideals of equity and access and serving their communities as leaders in K-12, higher education, and human services.

“In the School of Education, I was able to develop a whole new skill set. I learned about the K-12 system, Common Core, the laws that pertain to education. The faculty was really able to tap into things that I care about, like marginalized populations, achievement gaps of underserved groups, and gender issues.”
